CONTENTS.

REVIEWS.

		Page
Art. I.	Anatomical Investigations. By J. D. Godman, M. D. Lecrturer on Anatomy and Physiology,	9
II.	Puchelt on the Venous System in its morbid relations,	31
III.	Miner on Typhus Syncopalis, or Spotted Fever of New England,	46
IV.	Summa Observationum Medicarum ex Praxi clinica triginta Annorum depromptarum. Auctore Lud. Josepho Schmidtmann,	68
V.	Transactions of the Associated Apothecaries and Surgeon Apothecaries of England and Wales,	87

ORIGINAL DEPARTMENT.

Art. I.	Supplement to an Essay on Digestion. By Nathan R. Smith, M. D.	105
II.	Classification of General Anatomy. By N. R. Smith, M. D.	131
III.	Observations on the use of Artemisia Vulgaris in the treatment of Epilepsy,	137
IV.	Observations on Fractures of the Femur, with an account of a new Splint. By Prof. Nathan Smith, of Yale College,	140
VI.	Cases of Fracture of the Skull. By Charles Hall, M. D. of St. Albans, Vt.	150
VII.	Cases illustrating the Reproduction of Bones, and a recent Case of Amputation of the Lower Jaw. By George M'Clellan, M. D.	152
VIII.	An account of the Pinta or Blue-stain of Mexico. By Samuel M'Clellan, M. D. of Bristol,	164

PAGE

IX. Description of a new instrument for Extracting Coins, &c. from the Œsophagus. By Professor Smith, of Yale College, - 168

ANALECTA.

1. Dr. Gometz on the Tænifuge Properties of the Pomegranate-root,—2. Desperetz on Animal Heat,—3. Menstruation through the nipples of the mammæ,—4. On the presence of water in the lungs of drowned persons,—5. Diagnosis between Irritation and Inflammation of the mucous membranes of the Bronchiæ,—6. Fatal Asthma from affection of the Glottis,—7. Practical Observations on Mercurial Fumigation,—8. Connexion between the anterior lobes of the brain and the motions of the tongue,—9. Sense of Smell independent of the Olfactory Nerves,—10. Reproduction of the Crystalline Lens,—11. Unnatural growth of the bones of the Cranium,—12. Bloody tumour of the Abdomen,—13. Death from Acupuncturation,—14. On the Sensibility of the Nerves of the Senses,—15. On the Galvanic Phenomena which accompany the Acupuncturation,—16. Rupture of the Spinal Marrow,—17. Unusual appearance of the blood,—18. Strangulation of a portion of the small intestines,—19. On the use of the Oil of Croton in Inflammation of the Bowels,—20. Various morbid alterations in Newborn Infants,—21. Use of the Kali Hydriodinici in Cutaneous Cancer,—22. The use of the Rhus Toxicodendron in palsy of the limbs,—23. Large Calculus passed from the female Urethra,—24. Extirpation of the Clitoris,—25. On closure of the pupil in Iritis,—26. Remarks on the Medicinal properties of the Croton-oil,—27. Employment of Caustic to destroy the Variolous Eruption.